TURKEY IN EUROPE - ITS PAST - ITS PRESENT-ITS FUTURE. - From the period ceased their extraordinary prosperity. Manomet III lost empire rapidly. He was defeated by the Austrians. The Cossacks began to harrass the frontier. Under Mahomet IV arms with the Turks. In 1686 the Hungarians took Ofen, the most formidable rampart the Turks possessed against Christendom. Nearly all Christian Europe assisted in this great triumph. We must pass over a number of minor events, which, though small, were important in their future results; but we cannot dwell upon them. But we cannot pass by in silence the great victory achieved at Zeuta in the humiliating treaty which Russia forced on the Turks in 1699, called the Carlowitz treaty. It delivered Hungary and Transylvania from a servitude which they had endured 170 years.

In 1709, Charles XII, of Sweden, lost the battle of Pultowa, and the hospitality of the Turks toward Charles involved them in a war with Peter of Russia. But he was caught like an idiot in the marshes of the Pruth, and was saved by the address of the Empress Catharine. At Peterwardin, Prince Eugene defeated the Turks disastrously and recovered Belgrade. The treaty of Passarawitz, which followed the victory, deprived Turkey of a large portion of her empire. Yet Ahmet's reign was one of the most glorious in Turkish annals. His laws are mo.uments of wisdom and civilization. He was dethroned by the Janissaries.

Mahmoud I. succeeded Ahmet. He recovered many of the countries which had been taken from the Turks. He was one of the noblest and purest monarchs of his age. When Chris-Lan nations leagued together to despoil Maria Theresa of her dominions he nobly refused to join in the robbery and tried to dissuade her enemies from their disgraceful conduct. Mahmoud died in 1754, leaving his kingdom re-invigorated and restored to much of its former strength.

In 1768 Mustapha III. declared war against Turkey made a disgraceful treaty with Russiaas inscribed-Route to Constantinople. Un-what irremediable disasters spring from such cau es. There are night-sides of the minds of lery of the edifice, reflects athwart its liquid individuals, in which presentiments of approaching calamity spring into life, and many curious examples are familiar to readers. They are unaccountable by any philosophy known to men. There are national presentiments that are equally inexplicable. It will be remembered that when Cortez reached Mexico he met a floating but well authenticated oracle among the Aztecs which predicted their downfall by a white race, extracted from the quarries of Asia and of the referred to in the close of our article of and when Huayna Capac, who carried the Pevesterday the military affairs of the Turks ruvian monarchy to its culminating point of prosperity, and not only consolidated its power, of which each letter composes a flower in arabut advanced its civilization, found that death was about to seize him, he called his great officers around him and "announced the subversion corruption, anarchy, and depravity reigned al- of his empire by a race of white and bearded most supreme. The Russians began to measure strangers as the consummation predicted by the oracles after the twelfth Iuca, and he enjoined it on his vassals not to resist the decrees of Heaven, but to yield obedience to its messengers." Thus while Pizarro was resting from the fatigues of his soldiership in warring with the martial tribes of Veragua, the mightiest of this master-piece of Ottoman art the surname the Incas, in the midst of the splendors and greatness of Cuzco, the Capital of Peru, was tions of the causes that embalmed Broussa in smoothing the paths of the Spaniards for the 1697, by Prince Eugene. It paved the way for conquest of the empire. The Greeks, too, of Constantinople, at the time of the last Constantine, had their auguries of evil, and the Mahommedans were animated by ancient prophecies of success. But even in the midst of these, the Turks also mingled prophetic visions of a terminus to their empire; and the time of its fulfilment is at hand. This is now weighing heavily upon the Ottoman in his last stronghold. The mighty Othman, the founder of the empire which bears his name, to the strength of intellect added the active imagination of the Orientalist. While a youth, he detailed to his teacher, Edebali, a dream that had visited his slumbers. He saw "a tree begin to vegetate before him, and it covered in a few moments with its branches the earth the news reaches us from Europe that Broussa, and the seas, to the extremity of the three continents, Europe, Asia, and Africa. From the sides of these mountains ran respectively four rivers-the Tigris, the Euphrates, the Nile, and the Danube. Their beds, in widening, watered countries verdant with pastures, yellow with harvests, dark with forests, and wafted vessels to the four seas. Towers, fortified cities, domes, cupolas, minarets, obelisks, pyramids crowned with the sign of the crescent of the moon, arose along the verge of valleys amid roses and cypresses. and three years' labor of his sculptors, also adorned Broussa. Lamartine says: "This Mosque, without peristyle, resting like a cube of mosaic upon a basis of white marble, is lined by compartments with all the marbles of color Archipelago. The door, in red-veined marble, is chiseled with maxims of the Koran in relief, besque. The dome, in transparent porcelain of Persia, allows, as in the palace of Timour at Samarcand, the light of Heaven to filtrate through its azure. "The cupolas and the minarets," says the learned historian De Hammer, who revives all the local traditions of cities so long inhabited by him, 'were lined recently again with green porcelain of Ispahan, which made them glisten in the sun with the splendor of emeralds, whence was given by the people to of the Green Mosque." These are but indicathe love of the Turks. Its site, as the metropolis of a vast empire, is second only to that of Constantinople. It stood within convenient reach of that long, narrow gulf which the Sea of Marmora throws into Asia from its eastern border. Its climate is delightful, its soil fertile, and its position gave it the command of the Ottoman empire in Asia. As the dark shadow crossed the mind of the Turk that he must leave Constantinople aud surrender his empire in Europe, he consoled himself that Broussa not only afforded him a shelter, but a suitable capital for an immense empire. Even Constantinople would be shorn of many of its advantages, if Broussa were in the hands of a hostile power. But while we wri'e. with all its mosques and earthly glories, has been destroyed by an earthquake, and the Turks look upon the catastrophe as a sign that Allah version of their dominion has come. The earthquake at Broussa has produced more disaster than the sacking of Constantinople would cause to the Turks. If they could have retained Broussa, they would have held the key to Asia, and could have shut the door upon the new possessors of Cons'antinople. The misty veil of prophecy still hangs suspended, but it trembles upon the wheels of time and is about to be lifted.

The historic events we have thus enumerated rather than sketched, are among the grandest that the world has ever seen, and they deserve the thoughtful consideration and investigation of all readers.

Affectionately Dedicated to J. T. C. By M. LOUISA CHITWOOD.

ng this dellclous night, While the May moon's eves of light Softly, pensively look through Evening's cloister gates of blue, While the south winds rustling creep To the nooks where blossoms sleep, Pressing on each folded lid Kisses through the day forbid, And beneath the starry heams I have giv'n my heart to dreams.

Not of snowy orehard blooms Wild bees sleeping 'mid perfumes, Not of moss-embroidered brooks Not of violet-dotted nocks, Nor of homesteads old and brown, Where the moonbeams shimmer down, Not of hills and grassy dales. Nor of falry-haunted vales, Not of earthly birth the light Crowning all my dreams to-night

For my soul hath taken wings, Dreaming of celestial things, And the clty seen of old, With its streets of shising gold, With its bright-haired scraphlm, Where the day can ne'er grow dim, Where the light shines like a mlst O'er the walls of amethyst, A faint shadow of this light Gllds my happy dreams to-night.

I forget my weary lot, All my struggles are forgot, Serpents coiled amid the flowers, Thorns that pierced in other hours, Hopes that perished all unblest, Friends who died when loved the best, Partlngs that the heart have crushed. Prayers rebellion's voice have hushed No dark ghost of sin and blight, Glideth through my dreams to-night

Ah! 'tls sweet the cross to bear, Sweet to lift the heart in prayer, Sweet the falth without a fear, Love that bringeth beaven so near, Till o'er life's thorn-dotted way, Beams the dawn of perfect day; Till the path seems short and sweet, Leading to the Savior's feet; O, baptized in strength and light Seems my inner soul to-night!

Dear one, through life's changeful way, Through its darkness and Its day, May we shun the ways of sin, May we strive the crown to win, Though our life-paths lead apart, Let this thought be in each heart, Soon will life be over, then Gladly we shall meet again In the land whose starry light Glideth all my dreams to-night, MT. In an article in Sunday's Times we spoke of ministers joining Know-Nothing clans, and se-cretly associating with bullies and thieves. We remarked that it was a pity that Know-Nothing preachers could not participate in the open deeds of their sworn brothers; that they had the bone and muscle and could whip women and rob money drawers as well as the most patriotic Know-Nothing in the land. The Journal on two occasions has attempted to torture our language into a charge against the ministers of this city. The ministers of Louisville were not mentioned in our article at all, and the Journal knows it.

Times of Wednesday.

The editors of the Times now say, that, in this denial of having mentioned the ministers of Louisville at all, they did not mean to deny having mentioned them in their paper of Sunday the 13th, but merely to deny having done so in their paper of last Sunday. But this assertion is certainly all a mistake, a palpable mistake In their remarks of Wednesday they referred directly to an article in which they had said that the Know-Nothing preachers had the bone and muscle and could whip women and rob moneydrawers as well as the most patriotic Know-Nothing in the land; and that article was not in the Times of last Sunday-it was in the Times of Sunday the 13th. So their rude denial of having mentioned the Louisville ministers at all had the directest possible reference to their article of Sunday the 13th, in which the Louisville min isters were mentioned expressly and explicitly and libelled most grossly.

This is a small matter, not worth a tenth part of the space we have given to it. If the editors of the Times regret, as their denial seems to imply, the very gross and scandalous charge made by them against the Louisville preachers on the 13th, 'tis well. But let them not seek to escape from the responsibility of their charge against the clergy by an unfounded charge against an humble layman.

OSAGE ORANGE HEDGE IN ENGLAND .- The farmers of England are making trial of our American hedge plant by way of comparison with the thorn, so beautiful in the climate of that country. Large quantities of Osage orange seed have recently been shipped by the dealers in this city to fill orders from England. We hope to learn soon how this plant thrives in the climate of Europe.

TILE-DRAINING .- S. Williams states, in the Farmer's Mirror, that his son has a market garden on the continuous flat lands east of Buffalo; and that his pipe and tile-drains have put him a month ahead of his neighbors this spring, paying more than the outlay in one season.

The river was rising again yesterday. Last evening there were 6 feet water in the canal. The weather is beautiful. The bighest point the thermometer reached yesterday was 81 in the shade.

MANAGEMENT OF THE PIE PLANT -A correspondent of the Country Gentleman writes as Having seen many articles upon the culture of the pie plant, I have been surprised to find nothing said in regard to the number of stems

HALIFAX, May cut or pulled at one time, and the frequency with which it can safely be done, and leave the plant in a healthy state.

Thirty-four years ago I sowed some seeds of the common pie plant, and when old enough to transplant selected the finest plants, and set them out in a rich mold, one root in a place. After a year or two, selected the best again, and transplanted as before, taking care to give them plenty of room. As near as I can recol I took off the flowers, as often as they appeared. When the plauts became vigorous, I used them as I had occasion, paying no attention to the number of stalks I cut from a single bud, except to take the largest and those fully grown. Some years they yielded well; then again were feeble. I then adopted the plan of cutting only one stem at a time from a bud, leaving an interval of some days, before taking another from the same bud. Following up this plan, I have succeeded in obtaining a very superior article; often two stems with the leaves cut off will weigh a pound. I think the average is nearly this. For years no blossoms have apupon those which have been in my care, while the same kind of plants, set out by myself, but falling into the hands of others (though in the same soil), by too close cutting, have in two or three years dwindled down to a very inferior article, and are filled with blossoms instead of leaves. This has transpired in several instances with these plants of my own raising.

I cover my plants with light stable manure in the fall. This is all the care I give them, exto thin them out when crowded. I let the plants which are removed stand two years before I cut from them, and, if not cut, the new plants in that time will be as vigorous as the old

I might add that I rarely cut my stems until the leaves are nearly full size, having found that when fully grown there is no unpleasant taste, as in the younger stems, and they are much more brittle

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Herald, writing on the 22d inst., says that the last steamer from Europe brought increased troubles to the Government in the shape of dispatches from Madrid. He further says that the statements published some months since by the Union, of a final and satisfactory settlement of Union, of a final and satisfactory settlement of Black Warrior affair, receives its contradiction by the last arrival. The writer we quote, says that he does not pretend to give the precise wording of the dispatches, but that their effect upon Secretary Marcy, after their perusal, was sufficient to cause a rather violent departure of the papers from his hands upon the days before him, accompanied with the significant expression from him, of—"The damned fool's," alluding to the Spanish Ministry.

SATURDAY EVENING, MAY 26, 1855.

We perceive that Rich'd Apperson, Esq., of Mount Sterling, the efficient President of the Lexington and Big Sandy railroad, is in town, submitting to our citizens to determine as to whether their interests in the question of the gauge now about to be decided for that road are such as to lead them to take any measures for securing the adoption of any particular one. If there is anything likely to extricate us from the position in which we are placed by the injudicious location of our Southern connection, and to retard and perhaps prevent the construction of a line from Danville, intersecting our own road, and cutting us off from the trade and travel of the South, it is to cause a break of gauge at Lexington for all such trade. We would ask what chance would we have for receiving the Southern trade over the road to which we have contributed so largely, if by coming this way it is exposed to two transhipments; and what will indicate more clearly the necessity for the continuation or prolongation of the Danville road South, than the unfortunate position in which we will be placed by the adoption of a five-feet gauge by the Lexington and Big Sandy railroad company.

The position of that company is such that, should they consult their interests as they now stand, it would lead them to such a selection as would be highly injurious to us, in regard to Southern business, and entirely adverse to any new accessions thereto from Eastern Kentucky. It is well known that at present we are not receiving any trade from the region east of Lexington, and what will have a greater tendency to maintain such a deplorable state of things than the adoption by that company of the gauge above-mentioned. On the contrary, should they be induced to adopt a gauge of four feet eight and a half inches, what would be more apt to turn the trade that now goes to Cincinnati to this place?

And, besides, who among us now can fully appreciate and fully comprehend the trade and business that will spring up from a road penetrating a country so rich in the great elements of national prosperity? What portion of our State is so rich in lumber, iron, and coal and in materials for manufactures of various descriptions, as the counti-s of Carter and Greenup?

The iron of those counties is unequalled for all those purposes requiring the best materials that can be obtained.

The coal also is unsurpassed both for ordinary fuel and for cokeing, and exists in such vast quantities that it is found in abundance in the very excavations made for the grading of the road, and we, who are sometimes compelled to that of which we sit down to write. pay exorbitant prices for this most necessary article, would be shocked to see it used for filling up ravines, a purpose to which now some of it is applied. An abundant supply of it from that quarter can at all times be depended upon, and, when we consider its nearness to market, and the fact that the Big Sandy, Guy andotte, and Kanawha rivers discharge themselves into the Ohio above this point, advantages of water can be obtained for running it unequalled by any other port on that river, and, more than storm that took place in this city yesterday af-all this, by a continuous gauge we may with ternoon between four and five o'clock, and the by any other port on that river, and, more than certainty expect to receive it all the way by rail, at a price which would save us thousands of dollars every year, which we are compelled to pay, in consequence of the low water in the

Another very important fact is this: that, by the adoption of a four foot eight and a half inch gauge, we secure for our city one continuous line of railroad from Louisville to all the Eastern cities. Is that not a consummation most devoutly to be wished for? and would not but turned to their right, described a semi-circle, break of gauge at Lexington add another to the many embarrassments which are seeming to concentrate around us?

The subject is one of vast interest to this city and we hope that our city fathers and citizens generally will give it a full investigation, that they may act with understanding upon a matter of such great public importance.

We have heard the new town of Ashland, on the Ohio river, in Greenup county. spoken of as promising to advance rapidly in importance and wealth, but were wholly unprepared for the account given of it by a letter written in the Courier. Some of our citizens doubted at first the truth of the statements of that writer, whilst others declared that the picture was a heavy draught on the imagination. The name of Ashland is dearly cherished by us, and for the sake of the name as well as for other considerations, we were induced to make some inquiry in quarters where we knew we could learn the whole truth, and we are gratified to say that the picture, as drawn, is truthful and not imaginary. Some weeks ago we received a polite invitation to go to Ashland last week. and thence to traverse the line of the Lexington and Big Sandy Railroad, as it is progressing at the end of the line, that we might see for ourselves what was done and what was being done. It was out of our power to attend, but we hope soon to see this wonder of the present age.

The last number of the Westminster Reiew confesses that "for fifty years past the merchant ships of the United States have notoriously been far better built than those of Great Britain." The U. S. steam frigate Niagara, being constructed by George Steers at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, will fully justify the Review. The materials of this noble craft will be 40,000 cubic feet of live oak, 10,000 cubic feet of white oak, 11,000 superficial feet of white plank, 42,000 cubic feet of yellow pine timber, 60,000 feet of yellow pine plank, 3,000 feet cubic of white pine timber, 42,000 feet of white pine plank, 350,000 lbs. of iron, 140,000 lbs. of copper, and 20,000 lbs. of spikes. Congress granted $1,000,000 to build her, but she will, probably, not cost over $900,000. Her full complement of men will be three hundred, and she will be ready for launching by January 1st.

Our friend "Ruth" talks like a young We do not know whether she is married, sage. but, if she is, she undoubtedly makes a firstrate wife. Her recipe for the treatment of a husband under peculiar circumstances is capital, but God grant she may never have occasion

[For the Louisville Bniletin I If your husband comes home drunk! reels into your room! tumbles into bed with his trow sers on! one boot half on and the other boot half off! don't stand gaping at him as if you were horror-struck. For mercy sake don't let him see you looking at him that way. What's the use of being frightened? What if you didn't were see such a thing before! You were never ever see such a thing beforel You were never married before, were you? Any how, if you are frightened, don't you think of calling a servant to your assistance. Do you want all of your neighbors to know it the next day? No, I'll tell you—the first thing you do—go down stairs and lock the door after him—and take hold of the railing and pull yourself up again as fast as you Then, before you can get fairly incan toddle. side of the room again, you will hear a most unearthly moan—and something that sounds like "dog-on sick"—then fly to the keeler and put it under his nose—muster all your strength and roll him over a little, just so he won't miss the keeler—poor fellow—then ask him if he doesn't "feel any better, dear," or something. But whatever you do, don't ask him what made him sick-or where he's been. You little "ninny," if you were to ask him such a thing you would deserve to have your jaws well rapped! TERRIFIC TORNADO-Three Persons Killed-A House Carried up into the Air—Terrible Effects of the Whirlwind.—Never before has it been our duty to record so awful a calamity as of the tragedy is still before our mind's eye; the wrecks of the tempest are still lying scattered about; but, were it not for the unimpeachable character of our informants, eye-witnesses of the dreadful calamity, we should be inclined to believe that they had been laboring under some mental hallucination, and that what we are about to relate was but a dream of the imagina-The reality, however, is too true. The bodies of the three victims and the wounds of the other persons constitute evidence too palpable to be set aside.

Our readers will remember the violent hailoppressive heat of the rest of the afternoon. the same hour, the events to which we allude took place in the town of Jefferson, near Jefferson Mills, 16 miles distant,

A cloud of a peculiar shape was first observed approaching from the northwest, and termina-ting in a funnel-shaped point, the apex toward and nearly reaching the earth. As it came nearer, it was discovered to be whirlwind, rapidly revolving and whirling up various objects, in which were plainly seen large sticks of wood, boards, small trees, and chairs. It was coming toward our informants, but did not reach them, and fell upon a large frame house. In an instant, and with a crash, the roof was torn off, and immediately the whole house was lifted from its foundation, literally torn to pieces, and the pieces carried up in the horrid vortex. All the furniture in the house shared the same fate, the weight of the articles appearing no obstacle to their ascent whatever.

And now we come to a part of the narrative sad indeed to relate. In the house were nine They were all drawn up into the air persons. and fell at different distances and with great violence to the ground. The wife of one of the eye-witnesses, Mrs. Page, and two of her chil-dren, were instantly killed. All the other persons in the house were greatly injured. The injuries, with two exceptions, consist of singular and heavy bruises all over the body. One man had his arm broken, and another his wrist badly sprained. Mr. Page only saved himself from being drawn up into the air, by holding on to a large rock. The house stood upon four large granite boulders. These were all moved several feet from their places.

The whirlwind went on and passed diagonally across a post and rail fence. Of this it tore 20 rods so effectually, that there is not the slightest vestige of a fence remaining. From this i passed to the barn, tore away one side of it and threw it against a horse, causing his death. The side of the barn then fell down on three calves and injured them so badly that they died during

The whirlwind seemed to pass off in a southward direction.

Many of the fragments of the building, etc., fell to the ground from a great height. In coming down they fell nearly perpendicularly, and entered the ground like stakes. Hundreds of these were control by our informant. The force of the storm was tremendous. Not only were the boards torn off from the beams to which they were nailed, but the beams themselves were wrenched asunder. The whirlwind was accompanied by a storm of hail, many of the hailstones being the size of walnuts. Some of them were nine inches in circumference. We have neither space nor inclination for comment on the sad affair to-day. Nothing like it has ever occurred here before, and we hope never will again. It realizes the utmost horrors of a South American tornado. Had it spent its force in the city, hundreds of deaths might have

SHEEP SHEARING BY MACHINERY .- In the list of patent claims issued from the U.S. Patent Office for the week ending April 25, is one to Palmer Lancaster, of Burr Oak, Michigan, for nothing less than a machine for shearing sheep, instead of a pair of sheep shears. The Scientific American says that "the machine is small and neat, is hung by a strap to the arm of the operator, and placed on the body of the sheep to be shorn. By simply turning the handle back and forth, and moving the machine over the body of the sheep, the wool is made to fly in double quick time. It is well known that the most skillful hands at sheep-shearing do not cut the fleece even; and, besides, the skin of the animal is invariably clipped out by the shears in many spots. The implement cuts the fleece rapidly and evenly, never cutting any part of the work twice; and it avoids cutting the skin of the animal. It is therefore a humane as well as a new contrivance."

Alleged Breach of Contract to Marry and Seduction—$20,000 Damages Claimed.—A special jury was empanelled yesterday afternoon in the Superior Court before Judge Gholson, to try an action in which Miss Mary Hedrick, a young lady residing in Marietta, claims to recover a large amount of damages (laid in the declaration at $20,000) against Henry Protzman for a breach of a contract of marriage, and for her seduction. Cin. Com.

In the case of Stunt against the steamboat Ohio to recover damages for an assault com-mitted by the engineer of the boat on a deck passenger, the jury returned a verdict for $300 damages.—Cin. Com.

The Rust in Wheat .- An old farmer, an intelligent friend, who was cultivating the soil successfully years and years ago, informs the edior of the Fayetteville Observer that rust in wheat need not be feared before the last of this Watch closely, and, as soon as it appears, commence cutting—don't delay, but be-gin at once—and the rust will die in one hour rom the time the wheat falls, the nutritive uices in the stalk will rush to the heads, and the grain thus managed will be nearly as good, if not quite, as that which is left standing to arrive at maturity undisturbed by rust. The informant speaks from experience. One year he lost his entire crop in consequence of the ravages of the rust; during another, he saved it by the course here indicated .- Nashville Whig.

GENEROUS .- For several days past, Judge Gholson has been occupied in the trial of the case of Mrs. Matilda Campbell against the Louisville Mail Company, to recover damages to the amount of $5,000, alleging that her husband was killed through the carelessness of the officers of the steamer Fort Henry, said boat being chartered and under the control of the above company. Mr. Campbell, who was en-gineer of the boat, accidentally fell overboard in October last, and was drowned.

The beat was not provided with a yall or life boat to rescue the unfortunate man, and when the steamer backed to his assistance the bucket of the wheel struck him, thus disabling him and causing his death. In consequence of the accinear the Kentuck side of the jurisdiction of the court, the jury was compelled, through the charge of the court. to bring in a verdict for the defendants. After the rendition of the verdict, the jury very generously tendered the amont of their fees ($36) to -he afficted widow.—Cin. Enq.

INTERESTING PHENOMENON. - A remarkable phenomenon occurred on Christmas eve at Hangehow, China. On the 5th of the eleventh month (Dec. 24) the water in the streams not connected with the sea rose suddenly at about 5 o'clock in the afternoon to a considerable height above its common level. The phenomenon which is without precedent in Chinese history was witnessed simultaneously at Hoo-chow, Kea-hing, and Hae-ning. At Hae-ning the wa-ter rose three feet, at Hoo-chow one, at Kae-hing between one and two feet. The water continued in its elevated position for a quarter of an hour, and then immediately subsided. No earthquake was felt. In the whole of the region where these cities are situated, constituting the part of Chih-keang Province North of Hauchow bay, there are no tides. All the passages by which the waters of the sea could enter, to the east of Hang-Chow, along the northern shore of the bay, have long been closed up to prevent an irruption of the ocean on the low level lands of that region. The tides that come in by the mouth of the Yang-tze-keang do not reach so far as these cities, stopping at about seventy miles from Woo-sung. The wind was southeast. This in-Woo-sung. The wind was southeast. This in-telligence has been communicated by natives of the cities mentioned They witnessed the phenomenon separately, and on comparing notes found that it had taken place at the same time in each place. Our informants say that it mus have been caused by gravitation from some heavenly body, there being no motion of the earth perceptible. Foreign savans will of course trace it to the same origin with earthquakes.

North China Herald. A young American lady who became acquainted with a Russian in Italy was followed by him to Marseilles. It seems that the police are not deaf to appeals which concern our com mon nature; for, by representing himself to be frightfully in love with the young lady, he was admitted into France. The police of Paris, less force in the city, hundreds of deaths might have marked its progress.

Sun-Struck.—Three laborers at work in a lumberyard above the city were sun-struck on Tuesday last. One of them named Thos. Flood, an Irishman, died, and the other two, by the use of proper remedies, are in a fair way of recovery. Flood was buried on Wednesday. He leaves a wife and two children.—N. A. Tribune.

Wood & CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS .- There is hardly any one who has visited New York and who has not heard of Wood & Christy's Minstrels. They are conceded to be the best band of the kind in the country. They commence a series of entertainments at the Mozart Hall on Monday evening next.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.-Rev. G. W. Smiley will preach in Sehon Chapel to-morrow (Sunday) at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M. (the day being Whit Sunday). Subject in the morning-"Baptism of Fire," referred to on the day of Pentecost. The public are invited.

The attack a few nights ago on the porter of the Louisville Hotel was not made by any one of the city watchmen.

THE PORTLAND RAILROAD .- We are authorized to say that the statement that the cars run off the track daily is without foundation. No such accident has occurred for two weeks. The cars have run off previously, but it was mainly caused by the placing of obstructions on the track by evil-disposed persons. The cars make their trips with great regularity, and start every twenty minutes. The road is a great convenience and benefit to our citizens and should be encouraged. The idea held out that an opposition omnibus line lately started has brought about a reduction of fare is erroneous. The charge has been and is now ten cents from Brook street in this city to the ferry-landing at Portland. The through omnibus line bears no comparison to the railroad. The cars are wide, have comfortable seats, run perfectly smooth, and there is no dust. The omnibuses running through are narrow, the road is in wretched condition, and the dust is almost suffocating.

The following notice of the road we clip from the New Albany Ledger:

The Portland Railroad .- During this hot and dusty weather we have had occasion to visit Louisville several times and always found a ride over the Portland railroad cool and free from

The company run an omnibus from the ferrylanding to the cars, and a line of omnibuses from the foot of Twelfth street, in Louisville, as far up into the city as you wish to go, and take your baggage to any part of the city.

Another evidence that this company intend to do everything in their power to accommodate the traveling community is the employing of our old and clever fellow-citizen, Mr. Elias Thomasson, as secretary and general superintendent. Our citizens will find him always obliging and attentive.

OBITUARY.

Died, of consumption, in this city, on Saturday night, 5th ast., R. R. KYLE, in the 33d year of his age.

The deceased was a native of Maryland, but recently of Louisville, Ky. A little more than a year since he came to Texas, hoping that the salubrious climate would be beneficial to bis declining health. He improved beyond his expectations until February last, when on a trip to El l'aso he experienced severe weather, during which he took a severe cold, cansing infammation of the lungs; in consequence of which he returned to this city, where two months of severe suffering terminated in death.

THE Castle Builders, by the author of "Hearts' Ease," "The I lleir of Redelitie," &c. D. Appleton & Co. New York. A simple but benutiful story, told in a simple and benutiful manner. The author studiously avoids all forced and annatural incidents, and the equally fashionable affectation of extravagant language. It is destined to great popularity among all classes of readers, for its sketches of life seem to usat once lively, spirited, pathetic, as well as graceful and vivid. All who read it will become interested in its fascinating pages, and close it with the impression that it is a good book, and deserving of universal popularity.

Reader, are you a bachelor! If you are, remember marriage is the mother of the world, and preserves kingdoms and fills iotics and churches. Celibacy, like the fly in this heart of an apple, dwells in perpetual aweetness, but sits nlone, and is connected, and at linst dies in singleness; but sits nlone, and is connected bee, builds a louve and gathers sweetness from every flower. Come with me, my bachelor readers, "I have made up my mind to start." If you would be useful, happy, prosperous, and honored, journey toward the land of wedlock, and when circumstances are favorable, take some partner by the hand, enter its precincts, and with an abiding confidence and pure desire, "settle down" in the midst of its springing delights, there to enjoy the sweets and anree the habies.
